

Make Your Workplace Safe and Supportive for Employees

As a business leader, there are clear steps you can take to reduce the impact of substance use and decrease the risks of overdose for your employees. When you have a workplace that supports recovery, it reduces stigma, creates loyalty, improves employee wellness, and has a positive impact on the bottom line. Read below and take these steps right now.

Educate and empower your employees to address substance use disorders.

- ✔ Create workplace prevention initiatives. It reduces injuries, lowers costs, and more.¹
- ✔ Provide training on the risks and action steps. Use the PowerPoint slides in the Change the Script digital toolkit to talk with staff.
- ✔ Hang Change the Script posters in areas where employees can clearly see them.

Establish benefits and programs that support recovery.

- ✔ Ensure job security during times of hardship. Employment is a motivator for employees to start and adhere to treatment for substance use disorders.
- ✔ Include naloxone (Narcan®) in workplace first aid kits. In the event of an overdose, naloxone can save lives if employees know how to access and use it.
- ✔ Offer health insurance. Make sure it covers treatment and support for mental health conditions and substance use disorders.
- ✔ Offer paid sick leave. It decreases the probability of job separation by at least 25%.²
- ✔ Provide access to Employee Assistance Programs (EAPs). They play a role in promoting wellness and reducing health risks.³

Provide information that employees can use to find help if they need it.

SAMHSA's National Helpline
(800) 662-HELP (4357)

Connecticut Department of Mental Health and Addiction Services
(800) 563-4086

National Suicide Prevention Lifeline
(800) 273-TALK (8255)

National Alliance on Mental Illness HelpLine
(800) 950-NAMI (6264)

Sources

1. Vine M, Staatz C, Blyler C, Berk J. The Role of the Workforce System in Addressing the Opioid Crisis: A Review of the Literature. United States Department of Labor, 2020.
2. Hill HD. Paid Sick Leave and Job Stability. Work Occup. 2013;40(2):10.1177/0730888413480893. doi:10.1177/0730888413480893
3. Slavit, W, Reagin, A, & Finch, RA (2009). An employer's guide to workplace substance abuse: Strategies and treatment recommendations. Washington, DC: Center for Prevention and Health Services, National Business Group on Health.

CHANGE
the SCRIPT

Use free resources and toolkits from trusted sources to inform your decisions and take the next steps.

Recovery Friendly Workplace – recoveryworksct.org

A Connecticut initiative that provides an array of tools and resources to guide you on how to create a recovery friendly workplace.

-  Center for Workplace Mental Health – workplacementalhealth.org
Provides tools, resources, and information employers can use to support the mental health of employees and their families.
-  OpioidPrevention@Work – opioidpreventionatwork.org
An interactive guide from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration to help employers identify and prevent substance use in the workplace.
-  National Safety Council – nsc.org
A renowned national organization that offers an Opioids at Work Employer Toolkit.
-  Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration – samhsa.gov/workplace
Offers a toolkit with step-by-step guidance to start and maintain drug-free workplace programs.

Scan Now to

- ✓ Find resources
- ✓ Order free promo items
- ✓ Get more info

Visit drugfreeect.org/building

Wheeler

dmhas

CHANGE
the SCRIPT